

Crumbling Tower

What do you fear the most?
Is it real, like the ghost
Of this failed, failed government
And politicians
With their lobby dollars
And elastic decisions
Should we bow to them?

I say revolution is near
If we don't see a plan that is clear
For complete transparency
For tax-paying citizens
All of our money
Must be justified, and then again
Can we trust this to them?

It's not your concern where your tax dollars go
And when you ask for results they've got nothing to show
While this watered down democracy is good for corruption to grow

Have you ever been face to face
With the fear of being displaced
As you lose your house
And all your life's possessions
A victim of spending
In a hard recession
Yea, you just on to your gun

'Cause let's not forget how we're here
We stood up out of anger not fear
And said give us our liberty
And our freedom
From evil governments
We don't need 'em
Well..they've grown evil again

While senators make fortunes from political power
And conflicts of interest are hour after hour
And the order of law is now shifting like a crumbling tower
